Dear Reader,

Welcome to this issue of Implants. I hope you find it an enjoyable and informative read.

In this issue we have something for everyone! Of particular interest is the article by Drs Topete, where they discuss the use of multiple implants for the replacement of each tooth root.

In addition, Nilesh Parmar has submitted an article highlighting the usefulness that Cone Beam Computed Tomography (CBCT) in treatment planning and execution.

Looking at the business side of running an implant practice, the profession’s most influential practitioner for 2012, Dr James Goolnik, writes about successfully marketing your practice.

Dr Philip Friel looks at the delicate balance between form and function when placing implants in the aesthetic zone; in this instance discussing the technique of immediate loading.

Remember we are here for you, the reader. If there is something you would like to see or if you have an article you would like to contribute, please get in touch – I’d love to hear from you.

Until next time...
