- Royal Canadian Dental Corps centennial celebration

This year marks the 100th anniversary of the Royal Canadian Dental Corps (RCDC). Since the formation of the Canadian Army Dental Corps on May 13, 1915, Canada’s military dental services have worn six cap badges, served overseas in both World Wars and many other peacekeeping, humanitarian and forensic operations, and looked after the oral health needs of Canada’s troops.

Explore Vancouver

At the conclusion of the conference, you can take a day to relax and revitalize by exploring some of Vancouver’s tourist attractions. The ocean is just steps from the Vancouver Convention Centre, and nearby snow-capped mountains offer up late-season skiing options.

In recognition of the centennial, this year’s meeting includes two presentations by military personnel. Both topics should be of interest to a diverse audience of dental professionals. Lt. Col. Genevieve Busisire will speak on “Military Forensic Identification Operations,” and Maj. Sandeep Dhesi will speak on “Operational Oral and Maxillofacial Trauma Care.”

Additionally, the RCDC will have a booth in the exhibit hall (No 1350), where visitors can view a multimedia presentation highlighting various aspects of the RCDC centennial celebration.
