Hinman exhibit hall adds a ‘Total Health Connection’

104th meeting also features ‘mini-residencies’ in geriatrics, pediatrics, cone-beam anatomy

Top draws in the exhibit hall at the annual Thomas P. Hinman Dental Meeting are the services, products, education and cutting-edge technology provided by the more than 430 exhibiting companies.

But in reality, that’s just the beginning, as is evidenced by one of the newest additions to this year’s exhibit hall: the Total Health Connection Pavilion.

The pavilion complements a larger overarching theme of this 104th edition of the meeting, which will run from March 17 through 19 at the Georgia World Congress Center in Atlanta.

Also new: “mini-residencies” with in-depth courses on geriatrics, pediatrics and cone-beam anatomy; more than 30 speakers who haven’t previously presented at Hinman; a S I L V E R course (“Strategies to Implement that Lead to a Valuable Enjoyable Retirement”); and the “Hinman’s Night Out: Dancing in the Dome” on Friday night (registration required).

The exhibit hall is open all three days of the meeting, as is its new Total Health Pavilion, where attendees can learn about healthy living, receive a free health screening, sample nourishing snacks, visit with health-related exhibitors, talk to lifestyle experts and enter to win a $50 gasoline card each day. You also can earn C.E. credit each day for various courses at the pavilion, which will be located in the back of the 1600 aisle next to the Table Clinics.

The meeting’s total-health connection isn’t limited to the exhibit hall. Meeting organizers have created a larger program that focuses on the health and science of the entire body, emphasizing the relationship between oral and systemic health. A wide variety of courses and lectures across all three days of the meeting include a total-health focus and can be found in the course listings by looking for the Total Health Connection logo used to designate courses that have a dental and systemic health connection.

The mix of total-health-connection sessions, mirroring the overall meeting itself, means there are offerings addressing the needs of professionals across all of dentistry: general dentists, specialists, hygienists, sample preparation, learning, and training.

More than 430 companies demonstrating the latest in dentistry will be in the exhibit hall at the 103rd annual Thomas P. Hinman meeting in Atlanta, March 17-19.
