Infection control: the importance of surgery preparation.

The proper preparation of a dental surgery is paramount for the prevention of effective dental care.

Infection control is impossible to work in an entirely sterile environment, the implementation of strategic infection control procedures is the best way for practitioners to become as close to perfect as possible!

There are a few key points that need to be undertaken regularly to ensure that the surgery remains as pathogen-free as possible:

• Surfaces in the surgery area must be thoroughly cleaned with a liquid detergent, before being disinfected with a specialised solution.

• All surfaces must be thoroughly cleaned before the start of surgery, between each patient, and at the end of surgery.

• Floors and walls in the surgery must be thoroughly washed with designated detergent, before being disinfected with a specialised solution.

Infection control industry leaders such have a comprehensive range of products and training programs that can ensure good infection control procedures are maintained throughout your practice.

ListineCare Total Care helps your patients to improve their oral health
Listine Total Care mouthwash offers substantial benefits. Not only is it clinically proven to reduce plaque by up to 56 per cent compared to brushing alone, it helps maintain healthy gums, strengthens teeth against decay, helps to reduce calculus, kills bacteria and freshens breath.
Listine Total Care contains a fixed combination of four essential oils—thymol, eucalyptol, methyl salicylate and menthol—which provide anti- microbial action proven to reduce plaque development. Listine quickly penetrates the plaque biofilm resulting in bactericidal activity helping to protect against re-formation of dental plaque.2
As average brushing frequency in adults is only 46 washes3, and only 20 per cent of the population perform acceptable flossing4, it is increasingly important for patients to use a mouthwash as part of their daily oral care routine, to enhance the mechanical removal of plaque, especially in hard-to-reach areas.
For more information on how your patients can benefit from Listine Total Care, for samples and a copy of a Patient Information Leaflet, please contact Johnson & Johnson on 0800 120 0750.
