Tennis screens
A Scottish dentist had five television screens installed in his surgery so his patients could watch Andy Murray in action at Wimbledon.

Feeling sexy?
If you have recently bought your practice do you know what your patients really want? If you want to be successful you need to find out why.

Southampton resident fights fluoridation
A judicial review has been lodged by a woman in Southampton against the decision to add fluoride to tap water in Southampton and parts of Hampshire.

Leigh Day & Co solicitors revealed that it has begun the legal challenge on behalf of Geraldine Milner against South Central Strategic Health Authority (SCSHA). A statement from Leigh Day & Co said: ‘Ms Milner is opposed to the proposals to fluoridate the water supply on account of the continuing uncertainties with regard to the long term health risks associated with fluoridation, as well as concerns with regard to the possible adverse environmental effects. She also considers that more targeted and less intrusive measures should be used to deal with problems of tooth decay in the Southampton area.’

The legal challenge argues that the SCSHA failed to have regard to the government’s policy that mass fluoridation of drinking water should only go ahead in any particular area if a majority of the local people are in favour of it.

Leigh Day & Co claim in part of the Water Bill that became the Water Act in 2003, Lord Warner, the Junior Health Minister, stated in Parliament that it was government policy that ‘no new fluoridation scheme would go ahead without the support of the majority of the local populations determined by local consultations conducted by strategic health authorities.’

The South Central Strategic Health Authority (SCSHA) board’s decision was made in February despite 72 per cent of 10,000 respondents in a public consultation opposing the move.

It also claims that much of the information on fluoridation submitted by bodies such as Hampshire County Council and Hampshire Against Fluoridation was never properly considered by the SCSHA board. The SCSHA stressed that the board is satisfied that, based on existing research, water fluoridation is a safe and effective way to tackle tooth decay and that the health benefits outweigh all other arguments against water fluoridation.

New practice
A second practice is due to open in the town in August. The second practice is expected to be able to provide 2,500 places.

Stolen teeth
Thieves stole a plastic bag of old gold tooth crowns and a charity box containing money from a dental surgery in Swanscombe. A dental nurse had 16x2ml adrenaline and 15ml Midazolam anti-epileptic medication and hypodermic needles.

Queuing patients
More than one hundred people queued up to register at a new NHS dentist that has just opened in west Wiltshire. The practice, at Westbury Community Hospital, started signing up patients at first thing on Monday morning and just over an hour later all 550 places had gone. Another 150 were made available for people phoning up to register.

A second practice is due to open in the town in August. The second practice is expected to be able to provide 2,500 places.

Tennis screens
A Scottish dentist had five television screens installed in his surgery so his patients could watch Andy Murray in action at Wimbledon.

Feeling sexy?
If you have recently bought your practice do you know what your patients really want? If you want to be successful you need to find out why.

Southampton resident fights fluoridation
A judicial review has been lodged by a woman in Southampton against the decision to add fluoride to tap water in Southampton and parts of Hampshire.

Leigh Day & Co solicitors revealed that it has begun the legal challenge on behalf of Geraldine Milner against South Central Strategic Health Authority (SCSHA). A statement from Leigh Day & Co said: ‘Ms Milner is opposed to the proposals to fluoridate the water supply on account of the continuing uncertainties with regard to the long term health risks associated with fluoridation, as well as concerns with regard to the possible adverse environmental effects. She also considers that more targeted and less intrusive measures should be used to deal with problems of tooth decay in the Southampton area.’

The legal challenge argues that the SCSHA failed to have regard to the government’s policy that mass fluoridation of drinking water should only go ahead in any particular area if a majority of the local people are in favour of it.

Leigh Day & Co claim in part of the Water Bill that became the Water Act in 2003, Lord Warner, the Junior Health Minister, stated in Parliament that it was government policy that ‘no new fluoridation scheme would go ahead without the support of the majority of the local populations determined by local consultations conducted by strategic health authorities.’

The South Central Strategic Health Authority (SCSHA) board’s decision was made in February despite 72 per cent of 10,000 respondents in a public consultation opposing the move.

It also claims that much of the information on fluoridation submitted by bodies such as Hampshire County Council and Hampshire Against fluoridation was never properly considered by the SCSHA board. The SCSHA stressed that the board is satisfied that, based on existing research, water fluoridation is a safe and effective way to tackle tooth decay and that the health benefits outweigh all other arguments against water fluoridation.

They are in favour of fluoridation but don’t appear to be in favour of democracy. I am just filled with despair.

If the SCSHA gets its way, Southampton will be the first place in England to introduce fluoridation since Health Minister Alan Johnson’s ‘fluoridation for all’ proposal in February 2008.

Campagnists against the decision recently handed in a petition of over 15,000 signatures to the government.

However it seems that the government has decided to ignore the petition and is still determined to press ahead with fluoridating the water in Southampton and parts of Hampshire.

Ann Keen, the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Health Services, said the government is firmly in favour of fluoridation ‘because of the potential it offers for reducing inequalities in oral health’.

The two Hampshire MPs, Romeo MP Sandra Gidley and Eastleigh MP Chris Huhne, who accompanied Hampshire Against Fluoridation campaigners last month to Downing Street to hand in the petition, have called the decision ‘bizarre’.

Ms Gidley said: ‘They may be in favour of fluoridation but it’s up to them to make the case to the public, which they have clearly failed to do. They are in favour of fluoridation but don’t appear to be in favour of local democracy. I am just filled with despair.’

Mr Huhne said: ‘First of all they gave powers to the Strategic Health Authority to over-ride the local community. I am afraid this is consistent with the past arrogance that has seen local opinion ignored.’

Health chiefs want to add fluoride to the water supplies of 200,000 households covering parts of Southampton, Eastleigh, Totton, Netley and Rowhams.

The law was changed in 2002 to allow SHAs, rather than water companies, to decide on fluoridation.

Endodontic vCPD at the ‘Theatre of Dreams’ & the ‘Bridge’

GOAL: How to score in Endodontics
Dr Rich Mounce will lecture at Old Trafford, Manchester on the 5th November & Stamford Bridge, Chelsea on the 6th November 2009.

This full day vCPD lecture costing £150 will include refreshments, lunch & a complimentary tour of the stadium & museum.

Kindly make cheques payable to Omnic BV (SybronEndo Division) & send to: Keith Morgan c/o Kavo Dental Ltd, Raano Road, Amersham HP6 6JL

Contact keith.morgan@sybronendental.com for full vCPD overview & key learning objectives.