Drop-ins for fluoridation consultation

Residents and workers in those areas of Southamp- ton which might receive fluoridated water can attend a series of drop-in events during the official public consultation period.

The sessions are organised by South Central Strategic Health Authority (SHA) and began in Bitterne on Thursday, September 18. Interested parties are invited to talk to experts and give feedback on the controver-sial proposal. There are display boards with detailed information, as well as the consultation documents and other explanatory literature.

The SHA claims it is inde-pendently overseeing the con-sultation to help people under-stand the arguments for and against fluoride. However, anti-fluoride campaigners are not al-lowed to give their own presenta-tions at the sessions leading to claims of bias against the health authority.

Chairman of Hampshire against Fluoridation John Spottiswoode said the outright refusal by the SHA to let his or ga-nisation make their own presentations at the drop-in events gave weight to the notion that the consultation was a ‘sham’.

He said the material pro-duced to date by the health au-thorities was one-sided and a false picture about the true effects of fluoride. It did not take into account other research which showed that fluoride could cause serious and negative side-effects on health.

Dental crisis in Lincoln improves

All patients living within a 20-mile radius of Lincoln can now be seen by an NHS dentist, according to the county’s dental service. Since the new contracts were introduced in April 2006, 60,000 county patients have registered with an NHS dent-ist with new practices recently opened in New Sleaford and Gainsborough. The only ar- eas in which the waiting lists still need to be reduced are Louth and Mablethorpe.

Before the Government intro-duced the new NHS dental con-tract in April 2000 when local PCTs began to control dental pro-duction of decay. People in impover-ished areas suffer from dental decay due to malnutrition and hygiene deficiency.

Adding fluoride to the water does nothing bar increase the hygiene deficiency.

The scientific evidence on the benefits of fluoride is flawed, being biased and funded by advertisers. Opinions expressed by authors are their own and may not reflect those of Dental Tribune International.
Yet again we have another ‘misguided’ decision this week only this time it’s to axe the Standing Dental Advisory Committee (SDAC). The BDA has done its bit by writing to Alan Johnson, MP, but whether it will make a difference remains a mystery. But the fact that there was ‘overwhelming’ support to keep SDAC, says it all. The profession’s respect for the Committee is apparent – but armed with the knowledge of its commitment to patient care and quality service is – ironically – disconcerting to say the least. For who, oh who would the government want to eliminate this professional authority, which has been a political stalwart in such uncertain times? If quality dentistry is key for the government, would it not make more sense to work more closely with SDAC instead of pushing it out the door? Or is the plan to weaken the profession further all part and parcel of a much bigger, bleaker picture? We hope not.

Okay, so we all know the old saying – the contract was rolled out without consultation...blah, blah, blah but then ‘ding!’ Let’s get rid of SDAC - for who needs a body that not only draws to its branches? Or would you like its branches to be a bit more ‘misguided’ decision without consultation? For the Secretary of State is going to say in reply...

Big fat wallets?

If dentists are earning 15 per cent more under the new contract we should be happy right? (Who wouldn’t be happy with an overall income of MORE than £100,000?) Only there appears to be a few discrepancies here. Firstly – assuming the figures are accurate – is this a result of resorting to ‘simple’ work to accumulate this extra cash or not? The evidence of less complex work is the talk of the profession. Crowns and bridges, and dentures have fallen by 57 per cent, while root canal treatments have decreased by 45 per cent. Should we be worried? These are not small changes by any means – so how are dentists earning more money than ever if they are doing less complex work? Or could it be that this is total rubbish? For by the time the money has been ‘clawed’ back from dentists who have ‘failed’ to meet the treatment targets set for them, these earnings are way, way over exaggerated. And as the chief executive of the NHS Information Centre says: ‘The report reveals the pay of NHS dentists varies GREATLY depending on their contractual arrangements.’
