Editorial
Dear reader,

Winston Churchill once famously said, “Difficulties mastered are opportunities won.” These words from one of Britain’s most famous statesmen aptly describe the re-launch of the Dental Tribune UK edition. The newspaper that you are holding in your hands is the result of months of reorientation and repositioning that will see the return of an active participant in the British dental publishing scene. At this opportunity, we would like to thank our former partners for their years of commitment and wish them best of luck for their future endeavours.

Dental Focus

Francis Hughes about the current state of periodontology in the UK and why much needs to be done.

A MIXED NATIONAL PICTURE

King’s College professor and EuroPerio 8 chairman Prof. Francis Hughes about the current state of periodontology in the UK and why much needs to be done.

impact of these on the work of dental practices and laboratories currently and in the future.

Furthumore, we keep up to date with the industry. For example, we were recently invited to visit the headquarters of MIS Implants Technologies in Israel (see page 10 of this edition) Considered the next major competitor in implant dentistry worldwide, the company gave DT full insight into its production facilities and corporate philosophy.

Dental Tribune also offers high-quality and relevant clinical content. In this edition, among other subjects, you will learn how to recognise and manage orofacial pain, identify and deal with patients suffering from eating disorders, and boost your practice or business on Google.

We wish you an enjoyable read and look forward to hearing your opinions and comments. If you are visiting the Dentistry Show in Birmingham, we would like to invite you to meet us at Stand P60.

Sincerely,

The Dental Tribune UK editorial team