UK’s first eleventh Pico Laser

The UK’s first eleventh Pico Laser has been installed at the Kilbryth Dental Lounge in Bath Street, Glasgow.

The elexxion Pico Laser contains two lasers: a 5 Watt Gallium Aluminium Arsenide (GaAlAs) diode laser and a soft tissue laser. The GaAlAs laser is ideal for both post and endodontic work where it can sterilize the root canal. The laser energy is fibre delivered - the smallest available fibre being 200 microns. The GaAlAs laser has a wavelength that makes it an ideal way to do micro oral surgery. Using this laser, an area can be cut with light heat. Not only does the laser cut but it also sterilises the tissue as well making good post-operative results. Dr. Jayabalan, who has no other lasers saved of the Elexxion Pico Laser: “This is a superb, neat and compact and easy to use laser. It could also be used as a core build up material. I use the product as a base of fastening the mixing tip to the unit itself and also to line up the ‘v’ slot the Slick Tip will be inserted in with the mixing tip to the unit. Great for non-orthodontic dentists, as well as orthodontists, it does not cause shrinkage stress and my patients never complain of post-orthodontic pain.”

Defence Mouthwash

Defence Mouthwash in addition to toothbrushing and dental flossing is an effective method of helping to disrupt plaque and up to 12-hour action against the leading cause of bad breath. Defence Mouthwash in addition to toothbrushing was shown to result in up to 3.5 times greater plaque reduction than brushing alone. Richard Medley-Dixon, Expert Marketing Manager, GlaxoSmithKline Consumer Healthcare comments: “We know that patients are conscious about their breath and this is the main reason for choosing a mouthwash, yet only 50 per cent of adults in the UK use a mouthwash on a daily basis. The leading cause of bad breath is it. We knew that the chosen mouthwash helps to manage plaque. Concept Daily Defence Mouthwash contains both chlorhexidine di-gluclose and fluoride and is designed to help patients maintain healthy gums and teeth on a daily basis.” For samples of Concept Dental Daily Defence Mouthwash visit www.gsk-dentalprofessionals.co.uk
