News in Brief

Number of patients seen by NHS dentists increases
According to a new quarterly report looking into NHS dental activity, almost one million extra patients have been seen at NHS dental practices in the last two years—967,000 more than the baseline figure in March 2006. The figures show that 56.2 per cent of the population is seen by an NHS dentist, exceeding the standard level of 55.8 per cent for the very first time.

Denstply buys Astra Tech
According to a report from Reuters, U.S. company Denstply International has brought AstraZeneca’s dental implants and medical devices unit Astra Tech for £1.2 billion, securing themselves another section of the dental market. Denstply’s revenue will now increase by approximately a quarter after that off bids from rival private equity firms and medical technology groups, strengthening its position in the dental market.
