Complete the Jigsaw pt 2

Michael McCallion of FT&A Medical Recruitment offers practices and principals some useful advice to find that right member of staff...

M E D I C A L   R E C R U I T M E N T

You’ve bought the practice of your dreams. You have invested a considerable amount of time, effort and money into hitting it out to your exact specification. You almost have the team of your dreams to go with, but not quite. There is one key position that still needs to be filled. Whether it be associate, hygienist, practice manager or nurse, it can be difficult to find that perfect person to be that final piece. What advice can we give to make the process run more smoothly?

- Sit down and plan exactly what and who you want. I wouldn’t be telling tales too much if I told you that a large number of principals come to us who haven’t really thought the role through or who the ideal applicant would be. Be honest and open about this – it will save a lot of time and trouble in the long run.

Specification

- Prepare a full job specification. Leading on from the last point, you need to consider:
  - Duties and responsibilities of the role
  - Pay and Conditions
  - Temporary, Permanent or Locum?
  - Start Date
  - Staff Benefits
  - Contract and Terms
  - Probationary period

- What form will the interview process and procedure take?

The days of an informal chat in the saloon bar of the Dog & Duck have gone! Do not be afraid to go to multiple interviews. If you are still not sure then don’t feel that you have to make a decision. Take a step back and ask yourself why you are unsure?

Pay peanuts, get monkeys

- Salary. If you pay peanuts, you will get monkeys. Have a realistic expectation of what the role is worth. You cannot expect staff to buy into your practice vision and go the extra mile if you do not reward them accordingly.

‘You cannot expect staff to buy into your practice vision and go the extra mile if you do not reward them accordingly’

- An agency can take away the headache of the process. When choosing an agency make sure that:
  - Their fees are open and transparent
  - They are experienced with a high profile in dentistry
  - They are experts within the sector
  - Their approach to candidate selection is rigorous
  - They are members of the Recruitment and Employment Confederation
  - Having chosen your agency, ensure that you talk to them.

About the author

Michael McCallion of Business Development Manager of FT&A Medical Recruitment. Michael has huge experience in healthcare recruitment having worked in the sector for over 7 years, initially helping provide the right medical and dental staff to the MoD and the NHS. He then worked as Business Development Manager for an agency that supplied the private as well as the public sector.

Dentalcare.

- Are you an expert in recruitment? Think very carefully about managing the process yourself. It is no longer just a case of putting an ad in the BDJ, seeing the responses flood in, and employing the candidate you struck up a rapport with in a brief meeting. Employment law has changed a lot over the years and there is now so much more to consider. Also, what hourly rate do you need to make to ensure that the practice can run at a profit? If you aren’t doing dentistry, you aren’t earning money.

GET THE BEST DEAL NOT THE FIRST DEAL

You may be looking to buy a dental practice in the UK in the near future. You’ll want to find somebody who can help you find and finance the purchase and help you with the process. So why talk to FT&A Finance? You probably know by now that we are the best evaluation agencies in the UK. But did you also know that we can find you the best deal possible? Because we know the industry so well. We’ll make sure that you are fully prepared for the funding; there are dos and don’ts before you view a practice and ensure that you are on the right track. Hurry up and don’t miss the deal before you approach a bank or anybody else for funding.

Call us now on 08456 123 424 or email us at team@ft-associates.com