Fall means back to school

The leaves are starting to come down, and that means it’s back-to-school time for our children, grandchildren, nieces, nephews and all the other young people in our lives. Even for those of us whose school days are long past (like me!), fall is a time of year that probably brings back memories of what it was like to have new teachers, fresh textbooks, brand-new pencils with unused erasers — and, most important of all, ever-expanding academic horizons.

Of course, no matter how far in the past one’s school days might be, nobody’s education is ever complete. That’s why the magazine you are holding in your hands is so valuable. This is a C.E. magazine, and by reading the article on invasive cervical resorption by John Stropko, DDS, beginning on Page 6, then taking a short online quiz about this article at www.DTStudyClub.com, you will gain one ADA CERP-certified credit.

Remember that because roots is a quarterly magazine, you can actually chisel four C.E. credits per year out of your already busy life without any lost revenue or time away from your practice.

To learn more about how you can take advantage of this C.E. opportunity, visit www.DTStudyClub.com. Annual subscribers to the magazine ($50) need only register at the Dental Tribune Study Club website to access these C.E. materials free of charge. Non-subscribers may take the C.E. quiz after registering on the DT Study Club website and paying a nominal fee.

Also presented within the pages of this publication, you will find a report on laser-assisted endodontics by Steven R. Polhaus, DDS, FAGD; and an account of apical resection by Prof. Marcel Wainwright, DMD, plus many other articles.

I hope that you will take advantage of the C.E. opportunity in this issue of roots, and that you will also benefit from clinical expertise being shared in the other articles as well.

For those of you who will be attending the American Dental Association meeting this October in San Francisco, I look forward to seeing you in person. If you will not be at the meeting, please do not hesitate to get in touch via email with your feedback and ideas. I can be contacted at f.weinstein@dental-tribune.com.

Sincerely,

Fred Weinstein, DMD, MRCD(C), FICD, FACD
