People in Istanbul love their football, which is demonstrated by the fact that the metropolis boasts four clubs currently in the top Turkish football league. Tonight, 13-time Turkish champion Beşiktaş, currently managed by the former national coach of Croatia, Slaven Bilic, is facing an early exit of the UEFA Europa League against Tromsø IL. The Norwegian club beat the current leader of the Turkish Süper league 2:1 in the first leg.

NIGHTLIFE

REINA
Location: 44 Muallim Naci Rd.
www.reina.com.tr/en

One of the newest clubs along Istanbul’s Golden Mile, Reina, located directly under the Bosphorus bridge, attracts the rich and beautiful. The outdoor venue even allows its patrons to dock their yachts nearby. It can be difficult to get in without a reservation or the proper attire, but once you’re in you can party with local celebrities and international supermodels. The Mediterranean-inspired menu by Turkish chef Fahrettin Bilici is on the pricey side, but worth it if you don’t mind the €200 per person price tag.
